ARMSTRONG'S WILD DOINGS

More Damaging Evidence Against the Gay Tipton Deputy.

Elkhart Heiress Elopes-Dr. Spann Falls Dead at Anderson-New Tin-Plate Plant Going Up.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Feb. 2.-Some time ago Will Creswell, a young man aged twenty-six, who had spells of temporary mental disturbance, wandered away from his home near Columbia City, Ind., and did not return. Every possible effort was made to ascertain his whereabouts, but without avail and he was given up as dead. Several weeks ago there appeared in Alama township, this county, an apparently halfwitted stranger, whose manner and makeup attracted considerable comment. Selecting a retired place in a swamp on the banks | last night. of Mattison lake he erected a rude hut of amarack poles and brush roof, and here he lived all through the fall and winter a hermit life, avoiding intercourse with his fellows and resenting every attempt at in-

His wild life reached a friend of the Creswell family in this city and the father came discovery that "the man in the swamp" was his son. Securing the assistance of officers, a visit was made to the hut. Young Creswell saw the approach of the men, and, raising an ax, threatened to brain them. He made a sharp resistance, but was so weak from cold and hunger that he was easily overcome. An old tin pan set across two bricks was his fireplace. A piece of hard bread and an ear of corn constituted a laprobe which he had stolen in the neighan asylum. Disappointment in love is said to have caused his mental trouble.

MORE AGAINST ARMSTRONG. Story of the Two Attempts to Secure His Release from Jail. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. . KOKOMO, Ind., Feb. 2.-More evidence of a sensational character developed in the Cal Armstrong embezziement trial to-day, the seventh day of the hearing, and showed where a large part of the $60,000 went of Tipton county's money during his term of office as deputy treasurer. Float Jolly and Watson Pitzer, noted horsemen and sports, told of following the races with Cal and his string of horses in the seasons of 1892-93, and related his experience as a plunger. Cal, besides betting largely and recklessly himself, gave them rolls of $300 to $1,500 to place for them. He helped himself to the county funds whenever he ran short, and that was a frequent occurrence with him going at that gait. Totally neglecting the office, Cal, with Jolly and Pitzer, made a season of the races, stopping at Chicago, St. Louis, Goshen, Covington, Osgood, Columbus, New York, Johnstown, Guttenberg and other places. While in St. Louis Cal bought a shotgun costing $275. He built a fine barn at Tipton for his horses. Before going into the treasurer's office with his father Cal was not worth a dollar, teaching school at $40 a month. He also had a license to preach, and was a quiet and pious young man. It was brought out in the testimony that after his arrest two desperate conspiracles were formed to release him from jail. The young man arranged to meet his bondsmen at his barn at a certain time, and turn all his property over to them, the sheriff to take him there for that purpose. He misled the sheriff as to the hour, and on reaching the barn men were concealed to overpower the officer and allow Cal to escape. A horse, saddled and bridled, stood ready for him to mount, but the conspirators were foiled. The officer, suspecting something wrong, refused to enter the building. Another plot contemplating murder was also frustrated. A notorious character named Blufe Falkenberry was hired for $100 to enter the jail with a quantity of chloroform and a revolver, chloroform the sheriff and his famlly, shoot the two guards, put Cal into a closed carriage and drive him to Noblesville, where tickets to Indianapolis and Louisville had been purchased. Watt Pitzer, one of Cal's companions on the race track, had charge of the carriage, having first gone to Cal's father's residence and obtained his clothing and the $100 from the old gentleman, who at that time had not been arrested, and who was putting up for his son's release. Falkenberry, who was distinctly out for the "stuff," seemed to have had a better offer, and gave the snap away. The consequence was when Pitzer appeared on the scene at the appointed time to receive Cal, he was seized by the officers and taken to jail himself. Pitzer made a clean confession of this on the witness stand. Falkenberry was sent to the penitentiary a few weeks ago for hog stealing, it being his fourth trip to prison. MAN WITH A GANGRENED TOE He Relied on Christian Science to Cure Him and Died Yesterday.

His sickness originated in a rather peculiar manner. He was suffering from a painful corn, and attempted to kill it with carbolic acid. Gangrene set in and the toe had to be amputated. After the operation the surgeon left medicine for his patient, but the attendants refused to administer it and returned to Christian science treatment. Mr. Dunn steadily grew worse, and while it is reported that his death resulted from heart failure it is freely alleged that he would have recovered had other methods of treatment been adopt-

AN EGYPTIAN "PLUNGER."

Disappearance of Prince Hassam

After Running in Debt $750,000. BERLIN, Feb. 2.-Military and social circles here are discussing a sensation which has been caused by the disappearance of Prince Assiz Hassam, a young Egyptian nobleman, who was serving in the First Dragoons in the garrison in this city. Prince Hassam, it appears, has been living in a very extravagant style, employing a number of servants and having a number of Stirred Up Over the Utterances horses and carriages. At the opera, the theaters and at several clubs the young Egyptian Prince was well known, and was much remarked for his stylish appearance and extreme liberality. On the race courses, also, Prince Assiz Hassam was a prominent figure, as he was a heavy better and an unfortunate backer of fast steeds. Eventually it became rumored that the Egyptian Prince had been losing a great deal of money on the races and in other manners familiar to all those accustomed to life in a large city. Then the Prince turned to the usurers and began borrowing money. The usurers accommodated him for awhile, but, when his debts amounted to about $750,000, they refused to advance the Egyptian Prince any more money, and the latter was driven to his wits' end in order to obtain funds.

Things became more and more desperate with the Prince, and a few days ago the horses, carriages and effects of the Egyptian "plunger" were seized, and the matter was brought to the attention of the colone of his regiment, who gave him twenty days in which to pay his debts or make some satisfactory arrangement with his creditors. Apparently the Prince was unable to come to terms with his creditors, for it is now announced that he has vanished from the sight of all his acquaintances, and that the most diligent search has failed to find any trace of his whereabouts. Naturally, the disappearance of Prince Hassam has given rise to several sensational reports. According to one story, rec ognizing that public disgrace was inevitable and that his colorel would soon demand his withdrawal from the army, the Prince committed suicide in some manner and in some place not known up to the present. According to another story, the Prince, in despair, fled from Berlin with a young woman known in theatrical circles, and upon whom Prince Hassam is reported to have lavished much money and attention. Butler, secretary of the American legation, left the city to-day for the purpose, it is supposed, of going to Kansas City to conduct divorce proceedings there against his wife Linnie E. Butler. A thirty days' leave of absence was granted by the State Department at Washington to the secretary, but Minister Gray to-day was unable to say as to the plans of Mr. Butler.

REDS AND WHITES AT WAR.

Indian Soldiers Worsted in an Attempt to Redress Wrongs.

OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 2.-There was a lively fight last night at Fort Omaha between the white and Indian soldiers and, as a result half a dozen red skins are now in the hospital. Bad blood has existed for some time between the white and red troopers, and last evening a number of white soldiers attacked several of the Indians and gave them a whipping. The Indians went to their quarters and aroused their comrades. Nearly every red soldier in the barracks gabbed the first thing at hand and sallied out. They rushed into the rear door of Ketchmark's saloon, just outside the post, and waved their clubs, pokers and broomsticks. Fortunately only a few persons were in the place and they beat a hasty exit. Only one white soldier so far as known was hurt in the melee. The guards were called out and the Indians driven back to their quarters.

SCHEME OF SPORTS.

An Island in the Missouri May Be the Battleground of the Pugilists. KANSAS CITY, Feb. 2.-Local sporting men have hit upon and are endeavoring to push a scheme which, they assert, will furnish a permanent fighting ground where all prize-fighters can meet without fear of molestation. Just opposite Kansas City, the Missouri river, lies a small island. The proposition is to construct a club house upon this island where, the projectors aver, prize fights may be pulled off without legal interference. It is claimed that the State authorities have no jurisdiction on the island and that the United States authorities would not likely interfere with such a proceeding. It is the purpose of the projectors, who are actively pushing their scheme, to bid heavily for the Corbett-Jackson contest.

CATHOLICS INDIGNANT

of a Minneapolis Baptist.

An Attack on Mgr. Satolli Rebuked by Archbishop Ireland and the Clergy of His City.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 2.-A few nights since Dr. Leslie E. Keeley, of Dwight, Ill., lectured here. He was indorsed and assisted by many prominent men in the twin cities. Archbishop Ireland was announced to speak, but did not do so, giving no explanation. Rev. M. L. Morrill, of Calvary Baptist Church, was originally announced to open the meeting with prayer. He did not do so, but he spoke, and it is said that therein lies the reason for the nonappearance of Archbishop Ireland and the absence of the Catholic clergy on the platform. The meeting was in charge of the women's auxiliary of the Keeley League in this city. They had completed all arrangements and then a "kick" came. The Catholic clergy were opposed to Rev. M. L. Morrill opening the meeting with prayer. The women debated and decided to get Rev. Morrill to relinquish the opening prayer, but insisted that he should speak. And so Archbishop Ireland was conspicuous by his absence.

Rev. J. M. Cleary had notified the auxiliary of Archbishop Ireland's objection to Mr. Morrill and to-day regarding the matter he made the following statement: "On the Monday preceding the meeting we were informed that Mr. Morrill was to open the meeting with prayer. To this we objected at once. We have no objection to meeting any reputable clergyman of any denomination, either in discussion or on occasions like the Keeley affair. But the entire Catholic clergy are opposed to Morrill, whom they consider a theatrical mounte-bank in the pulpit, and whose language is that of a blackguard and a disgrace to his calling. We decline to meet such a man on an equal footing and give him the prestige of our presence. Father Cleary showed a letter from Archbishop Ireland, explaining to the women of the auxiliary his position in regard to Mr. Morrill, from which the following is a quotation: "We do not desire to have Morrill put off the programme, but we will stay off ourselves. It would suit our convenience to have Morrill remain." Father Cleary emphatically denied that a question of creeds had anything to do with the matter. He continued: "There was no call for religious formalities. The question of temperance is one of public morals, and it should be aided by all churches. It is not a courchly question We have no war to wage on any Protestant minister, but we do decline to sit on the same plattrom with a man like Morrill, to whom no position or condition is sacred. Take Morrill's speech on New Year's night, in which he used villainous language toward Mgr. Satolli, who has gained a reputation for tact, culture and refinement on both continents-a man who strictly minds his own business. To gain notoriety on such a basis is shameful, and Morrill needs a severe and public rebuke. The time has come when all decent people, regardless of creed, should turn their backs on the villifier. The speech for which Father Cleary de-nounces Mr. Morrill for delivering was given before the local Orange society, and the part referring to Satolii was as fol-lows: "So far as I understand the A. P. A., stands for morality, for education, and does not believe that ignorance should be the basis of our devotions. It believes that an Italian dago-Satolli by nameshould not undertake to dictate to the American people how they should be educated. My advice to Satolli is to come here and enter a country district school. Let him learn his A, B, C's, until he can analyze the sentence, 'When a man attempts to hammer down the American flag. snoot him on the spot.' Then let him stay here six months and get naturalized; then let him send for his wife and children and set up decent housekeeping. In the mean-

Erysipelas and Scrofula All My Life In Cloths For Weeks. Blisters Size of Peas. Burned Like Fire. No Rest or Sleep.

Tried Three Doctors. Did No Good. Got Cuticura. Immediate Help. Entire Cure in Three Months.

I have been troubled with Erysipelas and Scrofula all my life. Recently my limbs came out in red spots from the size of my hand down to the merest pimple. Some of them would fester a little, but mostly fire red, and the large spots looked more like raw beef, and would raise up quite a little from the surface. There would be blisters come as large as peas in different places with the rest. It was all over my limbs from my feet to my body, across my shoulders, and my arms, hands and wrists had to be done up in cloths for weeks, and they would itch and burn as though I was afire, and there was no sleep for me, and my limbs swelled a good deal. tried three doctors, but did me no good. Finally a friend recommended CUTICURA REME-DIE, and my husband got them. I gave them a thorough trial, and they helped me right off. In three months time I was all well. Now this was three years ago this spring. I have used six or seven boxes of CUTICURA, and have taken nearly a dozen bottles of the CUTICURA RESOL-VENT, and the CUTICURA SOAP I use entirely and there is no other like it for bath and toilet.
